Donna & Donald Couchie donate handmade quilts to NFN Elders' Lodges

In the spirit of generosity and community support, Nipissing First Nation is pleased to share the gracious donation of multiple handmade quilts by Donna and Donald Couchie.

Their donation will profoundly impact residents of the new Elders' Lodges, as each quilt will bring comfort and joy to those who will experience these handmade treasures.

“On behalf of Nipissing First Nation, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude for the generous donation of these beautiful quilts,” says Chief Cathy Stevens. “They will provide warmth and comfort to our members during the long, cold winters. Miigwech for your generosity and thoughtfulness.”

Chief Executive Officer, Brendan Huston; Councillor Rick Stevens; Chief Cathy Stevens; Donna Couchie; and Donald Couchie.

Elder Profile: Mary Stevens

Mary was the second child born to Margaret and Tom Stevens on July 7, 1916. Mary's sister, Catherine, died. She and two brothers, Lawrence and Alex, remain. Mary was born in Garden Village. She lived all her life here, just outside the reserve line, where her brother, Alex, still lives today.

Mary fondly remembers her childhood as happy times. She said they had a lot of fun back then. They all liked to dance very much. In fact, she said they danced every night. When asked who put these dances on, she replied, "the old people." They would gather at someone's house and someone played the violin. They had a good time. These were very good times, fun times.

Mary only attended school for about one year. Like many others, Mary was forced to leave school because she didn't belong to the reserve, though she did learn to read and write some. She enjoyed the little time she had at school.

When we talked about changes that happened through the years, Mary said there was no road to Garden Village - at least, not where the road is today. The road was straight to Three Mile Lake Road and they came out by where Stevens Street is on Springer Township.

When shopping was mentioned, Mary remembers that there were more stores to shop at in Sturgeon Falls than there is today. The 15 cent store, Dollar Store, and many others. They would walk to town. She says they would walk up through where Joe Stevens' house was, and up Three Mile Lake Road. Sometimes, they would use the dog to get to town. Lots of people would go to midnight mass at Christmas and walk home afterwards.

In 1933, she married Isadore Lariviere from Sand Bay, a little town near Dokis Bay. Mary told us her husband worked at the dam there. She met him across the lake when they were picking blueberries. He passed away in 1965.

Together, they had ten children: seven boys and three girls. Milda (the oldest), Evelyn, Albert, Lillian, Archie, Paul, Alex, Lawrence, Andrew, and Oliver. They stayed at Sand Bay for about two years, then Fred McLeod rented their house from them for a while, and Vince McQuabie, another year. At that time, they paid $360 for their house and $300 for another house they owned.

Today, Mary has 22 grandchildren, is living in Sturgeon Falls, and is doing very well. Thank you, Mary, for sharing your stories with us.

NFN staff member, Chantal Genereux, graduates from FNSSAC program

In the fall of 2024, Ontario Works Caseworker, Chantal Genereux, graduated from the First Nation Social Services Administrators' Certificate (FNSSAC) program.

Offered by the Ontario Native Welfare Administrators' Association in partnership with Algoma University, the 4-module program grants six university credits and provides participants with the knowledge and tools to administer the Ontario Works program in their respective communities.

Mnogin Greenhouse featured in Greenhouse Canada magazine

Mnogin Greenhouse continues to gain recognition as a successful enterprise. Most recently, it was featured in Greenhouse Canada, the country's only national business magazine dedicated exclusively to commercial greenhouse growers. The article highlights Mnogin's innovative approach to local food production, its dedication to food sovereignty, and its positive impact on the Nipissing First Nation community through sustainable farming practices, high-quality produce, and partnerships with local organizations.

Nipissing Quarry wins OSSGA Property Enhancement Award

The Nipissing Quarry, owned and operated by the Nipissing Miller partnership, will be awarded the Property Enhancement Award from the Ontario Sand, Stone & Gravel Association (OSSGA) at the 2025 OSSGA Conference in Ottawa on Wednesday, February 26.

The award celebrates aggregate operators who improve the aesthetics and overall appearance of their sites over time in seven key areas: entrance, approach, and perimeter screening; office and scalehouse areas; employee areas; plant appearance; environmental controls; trucks and mobile equipment; and communicative signage.

This is the first time OSSGA recognizes a site operating under a First Nation agreement outside the traditional frameworks of the Ministry of Natural Resources and Aggregate Resources Act.

Ash Basket Making

Our Grade 9 students had the incredible opportunity to create ash baskets for their personal bundles! Teacher Melanie organized this meaningful day, inviting Kim from Akwesasne to share her knowledge and traditional teachings. Through this hands-on experience, students learned about the sacred teachings of ash basket making, connecting deeply to cultural practices that will guide and inspire them throughout their high school journey. Miigwech to Kim for sharing her wisdom and to everyone who made this day possible.

Co-operative Education and Apprenticeship

Great things are happening at Nbisiing Secondary School. We offer our students fantastic learning opportunities. For example, we have experiential programs like co-operative education and apprenticeships. We also offer Dual Credits through a partnership with Canadore College.

Aiden is completing his co-op placement in the kitchen at East Side Marios and is pursuing cook apprenticeship.

One Water Update

One Water is a collaboration between Indigenous communities in Mexico and Canada to increase water resilience through rainwater harvesting. In addition to knowledge and technology exchange, resilience is built through relationships. It is a two-year project initiated in June 2023 and funded by the Commission for Environmental Cooperation.

What is Rainwater Harvesting?

Rainwater Harvesting (RWH) is the practice of collecting and storing rainwater from rooftops, which can be filtered and used for a variety of purposes.

How does it work?

1. Collection: Rainwater is captured from the roof and directed into a storage tank.
2. Filtration: The water passes through filters to remove larger particles and impurities.
3. Storage: The filtered water is stored in a safe, secure tank, ready for community use.

System Installed at Nbisiing Secondary School

The first rainwater harvesting system was installed at Nbisiing Secondary School in August 2024. This system provides a sustainable water source for the school’s garden and serves as a model for future installations. Additional sites, including a nearby outpost and cabin, are scheduled for installations in 2025 to expand access to water across the community.

Project Next Steps

Over the next few months, we will design a do-it-yourself (DIY) rainwater harvesting system adapted to NFN’s context. In June 2025, Mexican First Nations delegates will be visiting Nbisiing to learn more about water initiatives, exchange insights, and install one of the DIY rainwater harvesting systems. Keep an eye out for this exciting opportunity to connect, exchange knowledge, and collaborate!

The first rainwater harvesting system was installed at Nbisiing Secondary School in August 2024.

Water Monitoring Process

One Water, in partnership with the University of Toronto, is developing a regular water monitoring process comprised of professional laboratory testing and DIY testing. This process will be used for the Nbisiing Secondary School system and will aim to be scaled to other systems in the future.

Porcupine quill demonstration

Architecture student and NFN member Andrea Goulais demonstrates porcupine quill removal to community members.

This activity is a part of Andrea’s research for her thesis; she is exploring land-based workshops and types of spaces required to host these types of events. Andrea is studying at the McEwen School of Architecture in Sudbury, part of Laurentian University.
